

It's Utopia at Boys Home

Lads at Tulsa Club for Homeless Youngsters Have a Life That Would Be the Envy of the Most Earnest Socialism; They Pay What They Can and Are Never Dunned for Board Bill.

A boy with a bandaged eye, opened the door, and another with a broken arm called out "good morning" from a bed in an adjoining room. When a reporter from The World visited the Tulsa boys' home yesterday.

There are 18 boys here, now and there would be more—there are beds for 24—if the home had more sheets and blankets. The business men of Tulsa make this project possible, and boys from 11 to 18 live up to their motto of "homeless boys help themselves."

"We keep away from the institutional plan," said Mrs. Mason, who gives her entire time to the boys and runs the place as much like a home or club as we can. We have few general rules, but govern the boys according to their individual dispositions. The honor system is used and we feel sure of turning out good, clean, moral men.

No Inquisition Held. When a boy comes here, he is questioned. "I do not embarrass him with questions. I wait until he has become one of us and has entered into the play and life of the group. I gain his confidence by playing with him, and then I learn of his past life and what plan to follow in regard to his future."

One rule holds good for all but it appears to be useless, the boys could be in by 9:30 at night unless at some entertainment. But they like their "club" so well that they can't be induced to stay out.

Some of these boys have never known any other home. Here the meals appear on the table with that quality of surprise that makes a boy get days for his dishes, and a birthday cake and a special dinner is their joy when any boy's birthday rolls around. And, mind you, it is not a bought birthday cake, for a bakery across the street, even the pies and bread are baked right there in the kitchen.

Nine Are Attending School. Nine boys attend day school and, not working, are taken care of absolutely free. The others pay 50 per cent of their income to the home and this covers all their expenses, even their laundry. When one of these boys is taken sick, however, he is charged nothing while out of work, even his drug and doctor's bills are paid for him, and he returns to his job just where he left off, with no debt aside his young shoulders. If a boy comes to the home "down and out," he is received and cared for until he gets work. From that day he pays 50 per cent of his salary, whatever it may be, but he owes no back board.

The boy with the broken arm? He arrived in that condition some time ago, without a penny. His arm healed and he went to work. In play, today, he broke it again at the same tender joint. What would become of a 12-year-old boy like that with no parents—and no Tulsa boys' home?

How Another Lad Was Helped. One boy of 15 entered. He had been in the second grade at school for five years. He was dull and irritable, but an operation for adenoids has made him a changed boy. He is progressing at school now and in his association with his companions is quicker and more agreeable. The home has two large dormitories with double-deck beds and an expensive sleeping porch in use. A hospital room is to come next, but equipment is lacking.

"Boys appreciate nice things as well as girls," said Mrs. Mason. "Our boys are not inferior ones. Many of them are as fine lads as you'll find in any home. Feed a boy and treat him well, put him on his honor, and he will reward you with results. Many of these boys love to read. We need books. A basket full of them was brought here lately and the boys gathered around these discarded books, picking the ones they wanted to read first, in great glee. Frank Pratts gives them subscriptions to 'Popular Mechanics,' 'Boy's Life' and 'The American Boy' and they watch for the coming of each copy. We need character building pictures; our walls are bare and the boys are at an age to be impressed."

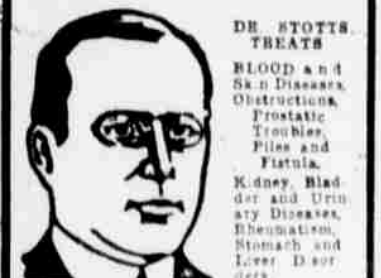

"Yes, boys from 11 to 18 are heroes, worshippers, and they should be encouraged to choose the right sort of heroes."

Because of the scarcity of domestic coal only about one-tenth of the vast amount of iron ore mined in Spain is utilized at home.

For quickly classifying the different grades of magnetic ores an inventor has devised a new electrical process to demagnetize them.

GROWTH IN SCHOOLS CREATES PROBLEMS

Necessity of Making Budget Made Difficult by Uncertainty of Demands Next Year Will Bring.

Efficiency in any line of business or the operation of any organization of property demand the systematic expenditure of funds. The budget system, now in most cases replaced by the old method of setting each day's expenses take care of themselves, and it is this method that has been adopted by the Tulsa board of education. Using the data of the last year's records, the budget is made for the following year with comparative exactness.

The school budget for this year is divided under the heads of general central instruction, operation, maintenance, auxiliary services, miscellaneous and other.

With this well defined division better audits are made possible and the wisdom of administrators may be easily judged by a comparison of the budget as planned a year ahead and the balance at the time of audit.

The question of expansion will be the one of serious moment always before Tulsa so long as the city continues to grow. It is practically a simple matter to estimate the repeating demands such as operation, maintenance and control. It is also easy to compile the automatic increases as teachers salaries, but the question of expansion such as new building, extension and additional teachers taxes the best of administrators.

In order to make the budget for next year it is necessary that the financial committee of the board of education know the resources of the system and for this reason the taxpayers have been asked to consider the bond issue and tax levy on March 25.

Much Better Than Tooting a Horn

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Slogans coined by the internal revenue bureau to stimulate early and full payment of income taxes reflect the changed conditions in which the taxpayer finds himself now that victory has been won and hostilities have ceased. The powers of authority have been defeated but the monetary cost of the success still is to be met, largely by the taxes to be paid this year.

"Army of occupation" sounds good but it needs your support," says one of the slogans. Then it asks, "Have you paid your income tax?"

Another slogan is an income tax receipt with a gold service stripe. Those who celebrated victory most loudly are reminded that "tooting a horn on armistice day did not end your part in winning a peace with victory. Paying your income tax makes more real noise than tooting a horn."

Persons who may be inclined to grumble at the increased rate of taxation are given food for thought in the following:

"If you think your income tax is a hardship, picture what you would have been up against had William Hohenzollern won the collectors' job."

Other slogans include: "You stand up for the national anthem. Now stand up and pay your income tax."

"There were no delinquents at Chateau Thierry. Are you delaying the payment of your income tax?"

"Don't try to fool your conscience by cheating the returning soldiers and forgetting to pay your income tax. An income tax evader hasn't much on any of the other pro-Germans."

"If you didn't serve over there you can serve over here by paying your income tax."

"When the boys come home they will ask what you have done. Show them your income tax receipt."

"When you pay your income tax you get a receipt from Uncle Sam. What would have William Hohenzollern handed you?"

"When you pay your income tax you get a receipt from Uncle Sam. What would have William Hohenzollern handed you?"

SECURITY LEAGUE PLANS TO CONTINUE ITS WORK

NEW YORK, March 8.—The National Security league, which was charged with violation of the corrupt practices act in a recent report of a congressional investigation committee, today announced that it would "continue its nationwide educational teaching for instance by the people upon the nomination at the primaries of candidates for congress who shall be representative men, and in so doing will publish, without limitation, records of the members of congress." This announcement is made "as evidence that the congressional investigation has not had a serious effect upon the organization."

In a statement the league says it will devote its chief efforts to teaching Americanization, which means "the fighting of bolshevism and other un-American tendencies."
